SEEKING CLUES TO DURABILITY

Accompanying is a second annual listing of stallions by two criteria as developed by the Durability Committee of the Welfare and Safety of the Racehorse Summits underwritten by The Jockey Club and Grayson-Jockey Club Research Foundation. The aim is the shine a light on stallions which are commercially viable AND produce progeny statistics which would tend to indicate above average performance in two areas---average number of starts per starter and percentage of foals which get to the races.

To qualify for the lists, a stallion must have ranked within the first 200 sires by progeny earnings for the calendar year 2009. This assures a modicum of success and relevance to the commercial breeding and sales market. For purposes of this presentation, we have rearranged that population by the two criteria stated and for each list have included the top one-half (100 stallions) of the original population of 200 by earnings.

Although stallions qualify for these lists on the basis of 2009 progeny earnings, other statistics given here are lifetime through June 12, 2010. (All Northern Hemisphere earnings, except from Japan, are included in these statistics, which were provided by The Jockey Club Information Systems.) The average of the breed in recent crops has been a career of around 18 starts per starter, and it is instructive to note that only a minority of the top 200 stallions in earnings reach this average. The average of the breed insofar as percentage of horses that reach the races is around 70 percent, so that the leaders in that category are seen to be well above average.

The underlying premise of these statistics, and of the Durability Committee, is that the national reduction in average starts per starter might be seen as an indication of a decrease in durability of the breed. The average starts per year for North American starters has decreased from about 11 in 1960 to slightly more than six in 2009.

It is understood that the average number of starts can be a function of many elements, some management based. For example, the salvage value of highly fashionably bred runners as breeding animals often discourages continuing to race a young horse once any problem develops.

We also understand that no statistical presentation can serve as a single indicator of success. The trade media for years have published sire statistics based on earnings, but also have provided a plethora of other measures, indices, percentages of stakes winners, etc. In that vein, it is hoped that the accompanying statistics provide yet another kind of insight into contemporary stallions' progeny performance.

Older Stakes Winners

Here we present a simple ranking of sires of 2009 by their number of stakes winners four years old and upward, with additional recognition of their graded stakes winners of those ages last year. For this list, there was no requirement concerning progeny earnings.

There are various circumstances under which a horse might win a stakes while over the age of three. In fortuitous recent cases such as Curlin, Zenyatta, and Rachel Alexandra, they were left in training by owners keen to allow them to continue to be challenged while the public benefits from the excitement of seeing bona fide champions in action. Less gilded reasons a horse would win a stakes at four or older would include the fact that he/she were late developing, had some soundness problems early on, and, quite simply, had no yet earned their way into the breeding sector of the business.

In any event, a horse winning a stakes race at four or older speaks well of his/her sire and dam and overall genetic make-up. In many cases leaders on this list are also leaders by other measures, which would be regarded as indicators of higher fashion. That such individuals as Distorted Humor and A.P. Indy have sired recent classic winners and also have a strong coterie of older runners carrying on successfully is an additional ratification.

Moreover, the fact that there were as many as 73 stallions which had at least three stakes winners older than three in a single year perhaps is indication that ---for all its suspected weakening--- contemporary breeding stock offers acceptable levels of genetic durability and toughness to breeders who seek those characteristics.
